The rules governing the Final Examination – First Part are set out in the Solicitors Acts 1954 to 2011.

The examination comprises papers in the following eight subjects:

- The Law of Torts;
- The Law of Contract;
- The Law of Property;
- Equity;
- Criminal Law;
- The Law of the European Union;
- Company Law and
- Constitutional Law

The following are the rules for the Final Examination – First Part:

_The Examination_ means the Final Examination – First Part.

_First time_ means the first attempt at the Examination and includes any subsequent attempt when the candidate still has to pass all eight subjects.

1. The pass mark in each examination subject is 50%.

2. No compensations rule shall apply.

3. There shall be no limit to the number of attempts a candidate may make to pass the Examination, provided that a candidate shall not be declared to have passed the Examination unless that candidate is deemed to have passed (i.e. obtained at least 50% in) the examinations in all eight subjects comprising the Examination within a period of not more than five years from the 31st of December of the year in which that candidate is deemed to have passed no fewer than three examinations in accordance with paragraphs 4 and 5.

4. A candidate sitting the Examination for the first time must sit examinations in at least three of the eight subjects. The candidate may choose any three of the eight subjects.

5. A candidate sitting the Examination for the first time who is sitting three or more examinations must achieve a pass mark in at least three of the examinations in order to be deemed to have passed those examinations.

6. A candidate who has previously sat the Examination and who has been deemed to have passed three or more examinations, may sit the remaining examination or examinations at one sitting of the Examination or may sit them individually, or in combinations less than the total remaining, in separate sittings of the Examination, and shall be deemed to have passed each such remaining examination by obtaining the pass mark.
