PAPER 1 - CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND CRIMINAL LAW OR CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND COMPANY LAW

This examination will comprise a four-hour examination during which two out of four questions must be answered in Section A of the paper (Constitutional Law) and two out of four questions from Section B (Criminal Law) or Section C (Company Law)

Section A - Constitutional Law

The syllabus embraces selected aspects of the constitutional law of Ireland as found in Bunreacht Na hÉireann 1937 (as amended) and in the relevant case law. Although all topics are equal in importance, especial emphasis will be placed on fundamental constitutional rights because of their contemporary importance in litigation.

The topics included in the syllabus are as follows:-

- The concepts of the People, the Nation and the State
- Sovereignty
- Relationship between International and/or regional law and the Irish constitutional system
- Separation of Powers
- Constitutional Interpretation
- Judicial Review
- Locus standi
- Consequences of a declaration of unconstitutionality
- The Oireachtas (Main Principles)
- The Executive
- The President
- The Courts
- The Attorney General (main functions and principles)
- Enumerated personal rights
- Unenumerated personal rights
- Emergency Powers of the State

Recommended Reading

A thorough knowledge of the principles of the Constitution as developed in the leading cases is essential. Cases can be found in The Irish Reports and The Irish Law Reports Monthly.

Summaries of cases are published in The Irish Digests. Only one casebook is available and, though dated, is a very useful tool for anyone who does not enjoy access to a well stocked Law Library.
