Aim and Objectives

The primary objective of BrexED Talks is to equip solicitors with the knowledge and skills to navigate the post Brexit landscape. This will be achieved through a series of inspiring talks from legal and political experts delivering a comprehensive analysis of the relevant changes for legal practice and law.

The most immediate changes that impact on all solicitors will be addressed in the first four lectures, all of which are available from 15 December. These include an overall assessment of what Brexit will mean for legal practitioners, changes in criminal law, family and child law and in-house practice. Additional sessions will be added as new legal changes arise.
