8. (1) In this Regulation:

“dedicated account” means an account (whether a current account or deposit account) opened and kept by a solicitor at a bank in his or her name designated for client moneys, controlled trust moneys, non-controlled trust moneys or insolvency arrangement moneys received, held or controlled by him or her in respect of a specific client;

“general client account” means an account (whether a current account or deposit account) opened and kept by a solicitor at a bank in his or her name designated for clients’ moneys, received, held or controlled by him or her in respect of more than one client.

(2) A solicitor to whom these Regulations apply, shall, in respect of client moneys or controlled trust moneys or non-controlled trust moneys or insolvency arrangement moneys received by that solicitor for or on behalf of a client or a controlled trust or a non-controlled trust or an insolvency arrangement,

(I) hold such moneys in an interest bearing account and account for interest thereon while so held; or

(II) account for interest thereon.

Such obligation to account shall be discharged as follows:

(a) where such moneys are held in a dedicated account which is an interest bearing account, by ensuring that all interest which accrues on such account is lodged to the credit of that account as additional, as the case may be client moneys, controlled trust moneys, non-controlled trust moneys or insolvency arrangement moneys held for or on behalf of that client or controlled trust or non-controlled trust or insolvency arrangement until such time as they are paid out of such account; and

(b) in all other cases, by accounting for all interest, in excess of €100 (one hundred euro), which would have been earned on such moneys had they been held as an individual amount to the credit of an interest bearing dedicated account of the solicitors choosing at the bank( or if more than one bank, the principal bank) to the practice of the solicitor for the period commencing seven days after the receipt by the solicitor of such moneys and for so long thereafter as they are so held and, where appropriate, paying that interest concerned out of:

(i) general client account up to but not exceeding the amount of interest at that time standing to the credit of the general client account; or

(ii) office account; or

(iii) (immediately following a transfer of the amount due from office account to the general client account) the general client account.
(3) A solicitor shall, within a period of three months or by the next accounting date (whichever is the later) after the date on which an amount of interest has been credited by the bank to an interest bearing general client account either:

(a) transfer from the general client account to office account, the amount of such interest so credited, to the extent it has not already been paid out of general client account by the solicitor to an individual client or clients entitled to be paid interest, or treated as additional client moneys held by the solicitor, and designate such amount transferred as being interest earned on client account; or

(b) credit to the appropriate client ledger account of the individual clients concerned the amount of interest due to those clients and, each such amount so credited to a client ledger account shall thereafter be treated by the solicitor as additional clients moneys held by the solicitor for that client.

(4) For the avoidance of doubt, where a solicitor holds client moneys, controlled trust moneys, or insolvency arrangement moneys in a non interest bearing account the solicitor has the same obligation to account for interest on those moneys, as if held in an interest bearing account.

(5) Where client moneys are received by a solicitor for or on behalf of a client, the client (without prejudice to any other legal remedy) may refer any question relating to interest on such client money to the Law Society, and the Society (after providing reasonable opportunity to the client and to the solicitor to make submissions to the Society on such question) shall determine such question and shall duly notify the client and the solicitor in writing of such determination.

(6) Nothing in this Regulation shall:

(a) affect any arrangement in writing, whenever made, between a solicitor and a client as to the application of client moneys received by the solicitor or his or her firm for or on account of that client or interest thereon;

(b) deprive a solicitor of any legal recourse or right, whether by way of lien, charge or otherwise, that the solicitor may have against client moneys of a client standing to the credit of a client account.

Manner of withdrawal from client account

9. (1) A solicitor shall not withdraw moneys from a client account other than by means of a cheque drawn on that client account, except as provided for in Regulation 7(1)(a)(iv) or 7(1)(b)(ii) or in clause (2) of this Regulation.

(2) A solicitor shall not withdraw moneys from a client account as provided for in Regulation 7(1)(a)(ii) or (iii) or Regulation 7(1)(c) other than by—

(a) a cheque drawn on that client account in favour of the solicitor, the proceeds of which are then paid into the office account; or
(b) a transfer from client account to office account.

(3) (a) Where a solicitor withdraws moneys from a client account by means of a cheque drawn on that client account, the payee details, to be recorded on the client account cheque and the cheque stub or requisition docket or other document of record in respect thereof maintained and kept by the solicitor, shall include the name of the payee or other person who is to be credited with such payment.

(b) Where a solicitor withdraws moneys from a client account by means of a cheque drawn on that client account which is made payable to a bank in order to purchase a draft or other negotiable or non-negotiable instrument, the payee details, to be recorded on the client account cheque and the cheque stub or requisition docket or other document of record in respect thereof maintained and kept by the solicitor, shall include the name of the person shown as payee on such draft or other negotiable or non-negotiable instrument.

(4) A solicitor shall not withdraw moneys from a client account, other than moneys permitted by and in accordance with Regulation 7, unless the Society, upon application by the solicitor, give directions in writing in respect of such other withdrawal.

Transfers between client ledger accounts

10. A solicitor shall not transfer an amount from the client ledger account of one client to the client ledger account of another client, other than in circumstances in which it would have been permissible for the solicitor under these Regulations to have withdrawn, by means of a cheque drawn on client account in favour of the second client, such amount debited against the first client and then to have paid the proceeds of that cheque into a client account credited to the second client; provided that—

(a) the solicitor shall maintain and keep in respect of each such transfer such accounting records and other documents as will enable such transaction to be appropriately vouched; and

(b) the solicitor shall record each such transaction in his or her books of account in the manner provided for in Regulation 13.

Office account

11. (1) A solicitor may, in the course of and arising from his practice as a solicitor, open and keep in a bank or banks more than one office account as he or she thinks fit; and a solicitor may pay into office account any moneys to which he or she is beneficially entitled.

(2) A solicitor shall, without delay, pay all moneys received by him or her in respect of professional fees into client account or office account.

(3) Where a solicitor pays moneys received by him or her in respect of professional fees into client account pursuant to clause (2) of this Regulation, the solicitor shall then transfer such moneys in a timely manner from client account to office account, as provided for in Regulation 7(1)(a)(iii)

(4) A solicitor shall, without delay, record as a debit on the office side of the relevant clients ledger account the amount of professional fees in any bill of costs furnished to a client.

(5) For the avoidance of doubt, it shall not be permissible under these Regulations for a credit balance to arise on the office side of a client ledger account; and, where such a credit balance does arise, it shall be a breach of these Regulations for the solicitor to fail, without delay, to correct the position as appropriate in the particular circumstances consequent on an investigation by him or her as to how such credit balance has arisen, including whether such credit balance has arisen as a result of:

(a) a failure to comply with Regulation 4(2) by lodging moneys in respect of outlays not yet disbursed to office account instead of to client account; or

(b) a failure to comply with clause (4) of this Regulation by not recording as a debit on the office side of the relevant client ledger account the amount of professional fees in a bill of costs furnished to a client and where the subsequent receipt (in whole or in part) of such amount from the client has been recorded as a credit on the office side of that client ledger account; or

(c) the payment into office account of moneys received from a client in excess of an amount payable by that client for professional fees the subject of a bill of costs, the furnishing of which has been recorded as provided for in clause (5) of this Regulation; or

(d) another accounting or posting error;

PROVIDED that it shall not be a breach of these Regulations for a credit balance to arise on the office side of a client ledger account where that credit balance is totally offset by a debit balance or balances arising on the office side of one or more other client ledger accounts in respect of the same client.

Duty to furnish bill of costs

12. (1) A solicitor, who holds clients' moneys on client account on behalf of a client to whom the solicitor has provided legal services in a client matter which has been completed and the clients' moneys concerned are clients' moneys which would be properly available to be applied by the solicitor in satisfaction (in whole or in part) of professional fees by the client concerned if the solicitor had furnished to that client a bill of costs, shall be required to furnish to such client a bill of costs which specifies the amount of the professional fees payable by the client in respect of such legal services in such client matter; and, thereafter, the provisions of Regulation 7(1)(a)(iii) shall apply to the transfer in a timely manner of such moneys from client account to office account.
(2) Nothing in clause (1) of this Regulation shall prevent a solicitor from furnishing to a client an interim bill of costs for interim professional fees for legal services already provided in a client matter but where the client matter concerned has not yet been completed; provided that, where clients' moneys held in client account on behalf of the client concerned are clients' moneys which that client has designated as being in respect of such interim professional fees for legal services already provided by the solicitor, the solicitor shall be required to furnish to that client an interim bill of costs for the amount of such interim professional fees; and, thereafter, the provisions of Regulation 7(1)(a)(iii) shall apply to the transfer in a timely manner of such moneys from client account to office account.

(3) For the avoidance of doubt, it shall be a breach of these Regulations for a solicitor to withdraw moneys from a client account, as provided for in Regulation 9(2), in respect of professional fees or interim professional fees or outlays not properly payable to the solicitor at the time of such withdrawal.

Books of account to be maintained by solicitor

13. (1) A solicitor shall, at all times in the course of and arising from his or her practice as a solicitor, maintain (as part of his or her accounting records) proper books of account and such relevant supporting documents as will enable clients' moneys handled and dealt with by the solicitor to be duly recorded and the entries relevant thereto in the books of account to be appropriately vouched.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of clause (1) of this Regulation, a solicitor shall maintain books of account:

(a) which will show the true financial position in relation to the solicitor's transactions with clients' moneys and with other moneys transacted by him or her through client account as referred to in Regulation 5(1); and

(b) which shall, in respect of each client, distinguish separately between, on the one hand, clients' moneys and moneys as specified in subclause (a) of this clause and, on the other hand, any other moneys received, held, controlled or paid by him or her.

(3) (a) Without prejudice to the generality of clause (1) of this Regulation, a solicitor shall at all times maintain a separate client ledger account for each client matter dealt with where clients' moneys are received, held, controlled or paid by the solicitor.

(b) A solicitor shall, where applicable, maintain and keep on the relevant client matter file appropriate evidence of outlays disbursed out of moneys withdrawn from client account or disbursed out of moneys withdrawn from office account and recouped out of clients' moneys withdrawn from client account.

(4) Without prejudice to the generality of clause (1) of this Regulation, a solicitor shall record each of his or her transactions with clients' moneys and with any other moneys transacted through client account as referred to in clause (2)(a) of this Regulation, as appropriate:

(a) (i) in a clients' cash book, or

(b) in a client ledger.

(5) Without prejudice to the generality of clause (1) of this Regulation and of Part III(A) (relating to controlled trusts) and Part III(B) (relating to non-controlled trusts) of these Regulations, a solicitor shall, as appropriate, record his or her transactions with controlled trust moneys or non-controlled trust moneys in the same way as is provided for in subclauses (a) and (b) of clause (4) of this Regulation in respect of clients' moneys.

(6) Without prejudice to the generality of clause (1) of this Regulation, and of Part III(C) (relating to insolvency arrangements) a personal insolvency practitioner shall, as appropriate, record his or her transactions with insolvency arrangement moneys in the same way as is provided for in subclauses (a) and (b) of clause (4) of this Regulation in respect of clients' moneys.

(7) Without prejudice to the generality of clause (1) of this Regulation, a solicitor shall record in his or her books of account each of his or her transactions on office account with moneys (other than clients' moneys or moneys referred to in clause 2(a) of this Regulation and other than controlled trust moneys or non-controlled trust moneys and other than insolvency arrangement moneys) as appropriate, in the following books of account:

(a) an office cash book (or the office side of a clients' cash book);

(b) an office ledger (or the office side of a client ledger);

(c) an office ledger control account (to record the totals of all items that have been posted individually to the debit and credit columns of the office ledger); and

(d) nominal ledger accounts (to record the totals of all items that have been posted individually other than to the debit and credit columns of the client ledger or the debit and credit columns of the office ledger).

(8) (a) A solicitor shall, as of each balancing date, prepare a statement (hereinafter in this Regulation referred to as a “balancing statement”) comparing and balancing:

(i) the total of the credit balances due to his or her clients as extracted from the client ledger accounts, including credit balances in respect of controlled trust moneys or non-controlled trust moneys held in client account, controlled trust ledger accounts, and insolvency arrangement ledger accounts, provided that, without prejudice to the generality of Regulations 7(2)(a), 18(4)(a) and 23(4)(a) the solicitor shall not offset debit balances against credit balances, other than a debit balance or balances arising on one or more ledger account or accounts which is or are totally offset by a credit balance or balances on one or more other ledger account or accounts in respect of, as the case may be, the same client within the client ledger, the same controlled trust or the same insolvency arrangement;

(ii) the balance on the client ledger control account, controlled trust ledger control account and insolvency arrangement ledger control account; and

(c) moneys which represent interest on controlled trust moneys, as provided for in Regulation 8.

(2) A controlling trustee shall not hold moneys to which the controlling trustee is beneficially entitled in a controlled trust account for longer than three months.

(3) In clause (2) of this Regulation, “moneys to which the controlling trustee is beneficially entitled” has the same meaning, mutatis mutandis, as “moneys to which the solicitor is beneficially entitled” as provided for in Regulation 5(3).

Treatment of moneys which include trust moneys
16. (1) Where a controlling trustee receives a cheque or draft which includes a mixture of controlled trust moneys subject to more than one controlled trust of which he or she is a controlling trustee, whether or not also including other moneys not being clients' moneys, the controlling trustee shall first pay the entire proceeds of such cheque or draft into a client account as provided for in Regulation 6(1) and, thereafter, the controlling trustee shall, without delay, transfer the part or parts of such proceeds of such cheque or draft as shall appropriately be payable into one or more controlled trust accounts or into office account, as the case may be.
(2) For the avoidance of doubt, it shall be a breach of these Regulations—

(a) for a controlling trustee, having received controlled trust moneys, to fail, without reasonable cause, to pay (or transfer via client account) such controlled trust moneys to the appropriate controlled trust account (or controlled trust accounts); and

(b) for a controlling trustee, having received controlled trust moneys, to fail, without reasonable cause, to record such receipt in his or her accounting records.

(3) The Society may, upon application by a controlling trustee, give directions in writing to the controlling trustee regarding the holding of controlled trust moneys in an account other than a controlled trust account.

Moneys to be paid into controlled trust account

17. No moneys, other than moneys which, as provided for in Regulations 14, 15 or 16, a controlling trustee is required or permitted to pay into a controlled trust account, shall be paid into a controlled trust account; and, where moneys are for any reason wrongly so paid, the controlling trustee shall, immediately on becoming aware of that fact, transfer the amount of such moneys to the account into which such moneys should have been paid in the first instance.

Withdrawals from controlled trust account

18. (1) A controlling trustee may withdraw from a controlled trust account—

(a) controlled trust moneys properly required for a payment in the execution of the controlled trust concerned;

(b) moneys, not being controlled trust moneys subject to the controlled trust concerned, which for any reason have been paid into the controlled trust account by mistake or otherwise in contravention of these Regulations.

(2) The provisions of Regulation 9 (relating to the manner of withdrawal from client account) shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to the manner of withdrawal from controlled trust account.

(3) A controlling trustee shall not withdraw moneys from a controlled trust account, other than moneys permitted by and in accordance with clause (1) of this Regulation, unless the Society, upon application by the solicitor, give directions in writing in respect of such other withdrawal.

(4) For the avoidance of doubt, it shall be a breach of these Regulations—

(a) for a debit balance to arise on any controlled trust ledger account, other than a debit balance which is totally offset by a credit balance arising on another controlled trust ledger account in respect of the same controlled trust; and
(b) for a solicitor to discharge personal or office expenditure from a controlled trust account.

Duty of controlling trustee to maintain accounting records
19. A controlling trustee shall at all times maintain and keep such accounting records and other documents as shall be appropriate—

(a) to show separately in respect of each controlled trust of which he or she is a controlling trustee all his or her transactions with controlled trust moneys received, held, controlled or paid by him or her on behalf of each such controlled trust; and

(c) moneys which represent interest on insolvency arrangement moneys.

(2) A personal insolvency practitioner shall not hold moneys to which the personal insolvency practitioner is beneficially entitled in an insolvency arrangement account for longer than three months.

(c) moneys properly available to be applied by the personal insolvency practitioner in satisfaction (in whole or in part) of professional fees payable under the Act of 2012 and Regulations made pursuant to the Act of 2012 and in accordance with the insolvency arrangement where it has been made clear to such debtor that such moneys held by the personal insolvency practitioner are being or will be applied by the personal insolvency practitioner in satisfaction (in whole or in part) of such professional fees; provided that such moneys shall be transferred in a timely manner from the insolvency arrangement account to office account; and

(d) bank charges, where appropriate; and

(3) A personal insolvency practitioner shall not withdraw moneys from an insolvency arrangement account, other than moneys permitted by and in accordance with clause (1) of this Regulation.

The name and business address of his or her reporting accountant shall also be stated in the annual declaration made to the Society by a solicitor for the purpose of obtaining a practising certificate.

Where a solicitor changes his or her reporting accountant, the solicitor shall notify the Society in writing within not later than fourteen days after such change has taken place.

(d) is approved by the Society.

(5) (a) The Society may at any time in its absolute discretion wholly or partly withdraw approval of an accountant as a reporting accountant and may thereafter refuse to accept reporting accountant's reports signed by such accountant either generally or in any particular case.

(b) The Society shall, as soon as practicable, notify in writing any accountant in respect of whom his or her approval as a reporting accountant has been wholly or partly withdrawn by the Society and the Society shall, at the same time, notify any solicitor who, according to the Society's records, would be affected by such withdrawal of approval; provided that the Society shall be under no obligation to the accountant concerned or any solicitor affected to assign any reason for such withdrawal of approval.

Form of Acknowledgement

27. Where a sole practitioner or a partnership of solicitors is required pursuant to Regulation 26 to ensure that there is furnished to the Society a reporting accountants report, the sole practitioner or compliance partner as the case may be shall complete and sign the form of acknowledgement comprised in Part IV of the reporting accountants report as set out in Schedule II to the Regulations; the sole practitioner or compliance partner concerned shall ensure that the reporting accountants report containing the completed and signed form of acknowledgement is furnished to the Society within the time provided by these Regulations for the furnishing of the reporting accountant's report.

Examination by reporting accountant

28. (1) For the purpose of preparing a solicitor's reporting accountant's report, a reporting accountant shall ascertain from the solicitor particulars of each bank account (whether office account, client account, controlled trust account, non-controlled trust account or insolvency arrangement account) opened and kept by the solicitor in connection with his or her practice at any time during the accounting period to which the reporting accountant's report will relate; and shall carry out an examination of the accounting records of the solicitor as provided for in clauses (2) and (3) of this Regulation.

(2) The reporting accountant shall, as applicable, carry out his or her examination of a solicitor's accounting records in the course of preparing the reporting accountant's report in respect of the accounting period under review by means of the following steps (not necessarily in consecutive order):

Step 1: reviewing the accounting records in each place of business of the solicitor so as to enable the reporting accountant to test that such accounting records comply with these Regulations and, in particular, to test—

(i) that there is maintained an appropriate account in the client ledger for each client matter,

(ii) that each such client ledger account shows separately particulars of all clients' moneys received, held, controlled and paid on behalf of each client, and

(iii) that each transaction relating to both clients' moneys and any other moneys dealt with through client account is recorded so as to distinguish such transaction from any other transaction or transactions relating to moneys received, held, controlled or paid by the solicitor;

Step 2: making test checks of postings to client ledger accounts from records of receipts and payments of clients' moneys and making test checks of the totals of such accounts and records;

Step 3: comparing a sample of lodgments into and payments from each client account as shown in bank statements with records of receipts and payments of clients' moneys;

Step 4: making test checks of the system of recording professional fees and outlays and of making withdrawals in respect of professional fees or outlays (or both) from each client account;

Step 5: carrying out a review of such documents as the reporting accountant shall request the solicitor to produce, with a view to ascertaining and confirming—

(i) that the transactions relating to clients' moneys (including those giving rise to transfers from one client ledger account to another client ledger account or to an office ledger account, or from an office ledger account to a client ledger account), evidenced by such documents, are in accordance with these Regulations, and
(ii) that the entries in the client ledger accounts reflect those transactions in a manner that is in compliance with these Regulations;

Step 6: checking the extraction of balances on the client ledger accounts at the accounting date for the accounting period under review and, at such accounting date—

(i) comparing the total, as shown in such client ledger accounts, of the gross liabilities to clients, including those for whom controlled trust moneys and non-controlled trust moneys are held in client account, with the cash book balance on client account,

(ii) checking the reconciliation of the cash book balance with each client account balance as confirmed directly to the reporting accountant by the bank concerned, and

(iii) checking the arithmetical accuracy of the books of account by ensuring that the closing balance of the client ledger control account for the accounting period under review is reconciled with the total of the individual client ledger balances;

Step 7: making test checks of the client ledger accounts in order to ascertain whether payments from client account have been made on any individual client ledger account in excess of moneys held on behalf of the client concerned;

Step 8: making test checks on office ledger accounts, cash book accounts and bank statements, with a view to ascertaining whether any clients' moneys have not been paid into client account other than as provided for in these Regulations;

Step 9: making test checks of the balances referred to in the balancing statements and the office balancing statement (as provided for, respectively, in Regulation 13(8) and 13(9)(b)) which are referable to the accounting period under review; and confirming that each applicable balancing statement and office balancing statement has been completed after the balancing date or the accounting date to which each relates;

Step 10: making test checks of postings to the client ledger control account;

Step 11: making test checks of records of moneys transacted by the solicitor as referred to in Regulation 5(1);

Step 12: ascertaining the total of credit balances and (if any) the total of debit balances on client account and the total of credit balances on office account and such other information as appropriate, with a view to ascertaining that there has been compliance with Regulation 13 (3) (b) in relation to the evidencing of the payment of outlays withdrawn by the solicitor from client account; and showing these balances separately in the reporting accountant's report; and
Step 13: requesting from the solicitor such information and explanations as the reporting accountant may require arising out of Steps 1 to 12.

(3) The reporting accountant shall, where applicable, carry out his or her examination of a solicitor's accounting records, in the course of preparing the solicitor's reporting accountant's report in respect of the accounting period under review, relating to transactions with trusts of which the solicitor is a controlling trustee or a non-controlling trustee and transactions where the solicitor is appointed as a personal insolvency practitioner, by means of the following steps:

Step ct1: obtaining a listing of each controlled trust, non-controlled trust and insolvency arrangement and each controlled trust account, non-controlled trust account and insolvency arrangement account as of the applicable accounting date; and

Step ct2: checking the extraction of balances on controlled trust ledger accounts and insolvency arrangement ledger accounts at the accounting date for the accounting period under review and, at such accounting date—

(i) comparing the total, as shown in such controlled trust ledger accounts and insolvency arrangement ledger accounts, of the liabilities in respect of controlled trusts and insolvency arrangements, with the cash book balance on the controlled trust accounts and insolvency arrangement accounts,

(ii) checking the reconciliation of the cash book balance with each controlled trust account balance and insolvency arrangement account balance as confirmed directly to the reporting accountant by the bank concerned, and

(iii) checking the arithmetical accuracy of the books of accounts by ensuring that the closing balance of the control accounts in respect of controlled trust ledger accounts and insolvency arrangement ledger accounts for the accounting period under review is reconciled with the total of the individual controlled trust ledger balances and insolvency arrangement ledger balances.

Step ct3: making test checks of transactions through client account and through controlled trust account, non-controlled trust account and insolvency arrangement account with the related records and file.

(4) Nothing in clause (1), (2) or (3) of this Regulation shall require the reporting accountant, in the course of his or her preparation of a solicitor's reporting accountant's report in respect of an accounting period under review, to extend his or her examination—

(a) wider than what should be ascertainable from the solicitor's accounting records (duly maintained by the solicitor in accordance with these Regulations) relating to any matter produced to the reporting accountant, supplemented by such information and explanations as the reporting accountant may obtain from the solicitor or from the solicitor’s bank or banks; or

(b) to enquiries concerning documents of title or stock exchange or other securities held by the solicitor on behalf of his or her clients or controlled trusts or non-controlled trusts or insolvency arrangements; or

(c) to enquiries concerning the solicitor’s compliance with the provisions of the Act of 2012, and the Personal Insolvency Act 2012 (Accounts and Related Matters) Regulations 2013 (S.I. No. 247 of 2013), irrespective of whether there is a conflict with any other requirements of these Regulations, as provided for in regulation 2(5) of these Regulations.

(5) Where, after carrying out an examination, as appropriate, in accordance with clauses (1), (2) and (3) of this Regulation, it appears to the reporting accountant that there is evidence that these Regulations have not been complied with by the solicitor concerned, the reporting accountant shall carry out such further examination as he or she considers necessary in order to complete the reporting accountant’s report with or without qualification.

Solicitor’s duty to furnish documents to reporting accountant

29. (1) A solicitor shall produce to his or her reporting accountant any document or documents requested by the reporting accountant which the reporting accountant considers necessary to inspect for the purposes of the reporting accountant’s examination in accordance with the provisions of Regulation 28.

(2) A solicitor, who is the subject of a request by his or her reporting accountant under clause (1) of this Regulation, shall not, in complying with such request, be required to produce to the reporting accountant an entire file for a matter where the solicitor considers (and so informs the reporting accountant) that for him or her to do so would be a breach of his or her duty of confidentiality owed to the client or a breach of his or her duty of confidentiality arising in matters relating to controlled trusts, non-controlled trusts and insolvency arrangements; provided that any document or documents relating to the receipts or payments in question shall be made available to the reporting accountant such as will be sufficient to reasonably enable the reporting accountant to appropriately vouch such receipts or payments (or both).

(3) Where a solicitor declines in whole or in part to make available such document or documents as is or are requested by his or her reporting accountant pursuant to clause (1) of this Regulation, the reporting accountant shall-

   (a) qualify his or her reporting accountant’s report to that effect;

   (b) set out the extent (if any) of the compliance by the solicitor with such request;
(c) specify the extent to which the solicitor has declined to produce a document or documents on grounds of confidentiality in express reliance on the provisions of clause (2) of this Regulation; and

(d) specify the extent to which the reporting accountant considers that the document or documents (if any) produced by the solicitor falls or fall short of what the reporting accountant considers necessary and reasonable to enable him or her to appropriately vouch the one or more receipts or payments (or both) that is or are in question.

Compliance Partner

30. (1) A solicitor who is a partner in a solicitors practice shall, on making application in writing to the Society for a practising certificate in respect of the practice year, furnish to the Society the name of the partner who has been nominated by the members of the partnership as the compliance partner.

(2) A solicitor to whom clause 1 of this Regulation applies shall ensure that the Society is notified in writing by the solicitors practice concerned within fourteen days of any change in the compliance partner in the course of a practice year.

(3) A solicitor who becomes a partner in a solicitors practice which is a partnership and which partnership is formed in the course of a practice year shall ensure that the Society is notified in writing by the solicitors practice concerned, within fourteen days of the formation of the partnership, of the name of the partner who has been nominated by the members of the partnership as the compliance partner.

(4) In the event of there being a change in the compliance partner in the course of the accounting period for the solicitors practice concerned, the Form of Acknowledgement in respect of that accounting period shall, unless the circumstances in the opinion of the Society otherwise require, be signed by both the outgoing compliance partner and the incoming compliance partner; and in so signing each shall specify the period during that accounting period that each was the compliance partner.

Where two or more places of business or associated firms

31. (1) Where a solicitor has two or more places of business, each place of business shall have the same accounting date and the reporting accountant’s report for each accounting period under review that is furnished by the solicitor to the Society shall be prepared by the same reporting accountant as if each place of business together comprised one place of business.

(2) Where a solicitor is a partner in two or more associated firms, each firm shall have the same accounting date and the reporting accountant’s report for each accounting period under review that is furnished by him or her to the Society shall be prepared by the same reporting accountant as if each associated firm together comprised one firm.
When reporting accountant's report not required

32. (1) A reporting accountant’s report in respect of an accounting period shall not be required to be furnished to the Society in respect of a solicitor who-

(a) having held a practising certificate, has caused to be furnished to the Society a reporting accountant’s report covering a period that is less than the accounting period in question, but which ended on a date that is the date upon which the solicitor ceased to practise as a solicitor and to receive, hold, control or pay clients’, controlled trust, non-controlled trust and insolvency arrangement moneys; or

(b) is in the full-time service of the State during the entire of the accounting period in question; or

(c) is in the part-time service of the State in respect of moneys received, held, controlled or paid by him or her in the course of such service; or

(d) has satisfied the Society that he or she has at no time during the accounting period in question received, held, controlled or paid clients’ moneys or controlled trust moneys or non-controlled trust moneys or insolvency arrangement moneys.

(2) A reporting accountant’s report in respect of an accounting period shall not be required to be furnished to the Society in respect of a solicitor who holds a current practising certificate-

(a) for the first time; or

(b) for the first time, after having, for twelve months or more, voluntarily ceased so to do; provided that at the date of such voluntary cessor, where applicable, was in due compliance with Regulation 26 (1); or

(c) has satisfied the Society that he or she was, during the entire of the accounting period in question, an employed solicitor and was not, at any time during the accounting period in question, a sole practitioner or a partner in a firm of solicitors (or was not held out as such a partner) and did not handle or in any way deal with clients’ or controlled trust or non-controlled trust or insolvency arrangement moneys other than for and on behalf of his or her employer.

(3) Where the Society deem it appropriate in any particular circumstances, the Society may require a solicitor, who represents to the Society that he or she is a solicitor to whom the requirement to furnish a reporting accountant’s report does not or should not apply in respect of him or her either at all or in respect of part of a particular accounting period, to verify such representation by means of a statutory declaration or in such other formal manner as the Society may direct; provided that the Society may, in addition, conduct their own investigation in order to confirm the veracity of any such representation.
Where a solicitor ceases practice

33. (1) Where a solicitor is required to ensure that there is furnished to the Society a reporting accountant's report for the first time or for the first time after having for twelve months or more voluntarily ceased so to do as provided for in Regulation 32 (2) (a) or (b), his or her accounting period shall commence on the date upon which the solicitor first received, held, controlled or paid clients', controlled trust or insolvency arrangement moneys, or on the date upon which the solicitor re-commenced to receive, hold, control or pay such moneys and shall end on the accounting date nominated by the solicitor and notified by him or her to the Society, which may be a period of less than twelve months after such commencement or re-commencement date; or such accounting period shall end on the date that is twelve months after such commencement or re-commencement.

(2) Where a solicitor is retiring from practice or is otherwise ceasing to be a sole practitioner or a partner in a firm of solicitors and is ceasing to receive, hold, control or pay clients', controlled trust or insolvency arrangement moneys, and where there has already been furnished to the Society in respect of the solicitor a reporting accountant's report for an accounting period which ended on an accounting date less than twelve months prior to such retirement or cessor, the solicitor shall be required to ensure that there is furnished to the Society his or her final reporting accountant's report in respect of an accounting period ending on an accounting date which shall be the date upon which he or she so ceases to receive, hold, control or pay such moneys.

Service of notices on reporting accountant

34. Any notice to be given by the Society to a reporting accountant under these Regulations shall be in writing under the hand of the Registrar, or such other person as may be appointed by the Society for that purpose, and may be delivered by hand or sent by prepaid registered post to the business address of the reporting accountant as noted in the records of the Society or as appearing in the records of the professional body of which the reporting accountant is a member; and, when so sent by prepaid registered post, shall be deemed to have been received by the reporting accountant within three working days after the date of such posting.

PART VI

INVESTIGATION OF SOLICITORS' PRACTICES

Investigation by authorised person

35. (1) Where it appears to the Society, whether as a result of a complaint or otherwise, that it is necessary, for the purpose of investigating whether there has been due compliance by a solicitor with these Regulations and with the provisions of section 66 (as substituted by section 76 of the Act of 1994) of the Act (as set forth in in the First Schedule hereto) otherwise for the purpose of exercising any of the Society's functions under these Regulations, for an authorised person to attend, with or without prior notice, at the place or places of business of the solicitor, an authorised person may so attend at such place or places for that purpose.
(2) An authorised person who attends pursuant to clause (1) of this Regulation at the place or places of business of a solicitor shall inform the solicitor or any partner, employee or agent of the solicitor of the purpose of the attendance and may, in pursuance of that purpose, require the solicitor or any partner, employee or agent of the solicitor to do any one or more of the following things:

(a) to make available to the authorised person for inspection all or any part of the solicitor's accounting records;

(b) to furnish to the authorised person such copies of the solicitor's accounting records as the authorised person deems necessary to fulfil the purpose specified in clause (1) of this Regulation (whether or not such accounting records or any of them relate also to other matters);

(c) to give to the authorised person such written authority addressed to such bank or banks as the authorised person requires to enable the authorised person to inspect any account or accounts opened, or caused to be opened, by the solicitor at such bank or banks (or any documents relating thereto) and to obtain from such bank or banks copies of such documents relating to such account or accounts for such period or periods as the authorised person deems necessary to fulfil the purpose specified in clause (1) of this Regulation.

(3) If a solicitor or the partner, employee or agent of the solicitor, who is required to make available accounting records to an authorised person for inspection under clause (2) of this Regulation, refuses, neglects or otherwise fails without reasonable cause to duly comply with such requirement, the Society may, on notice to the solicitor, apply to the High Court for an order requiring the solicitor to make available for inspection at his or her place or places of business such accounting records as the Society (including the authorised officer) deem necessary for the purpose specified in clause (1) of this Regulation or as the Court thinks fit.

(4) An authorised person who attends pursuant to clause (1) of this Regulation at the place or places of business of a solicitor shall be afforded by the solicitor (at the solicitor's expense) such facilities at such place or places of business to conduct his or her investigation as are reasonable and appropriate in the circumstances, including accommodation with desk or table and chair or chairs (whether or not in a room separate from other persons) and photocopying facilities.

(5) The Society's functions under these Regulations as referred to in clause (1) of this Regulation shall include the investigating by an authorised person whether there has been due compliance by a solicitor with the provisions of section 68 of the Act of 1994.

(6) Where, arising from an investigation by an authorised person pursuant to the foregoing provisions of this Regulation, it is considered by the Society:

(a) that a report prepared by the authorised person discloses evidence of a material breach of these Regulations by the solicitor concerned or other misconduct by the solicitor as disclosed by his or her accounting records, the Society may conduct such further investigations or make such further enquiries as the Society deem necessary in the circumstances;

(b) that the solicitor should be required to attend at the Society's premises (or elsewhere within the State) for interview by the Society, the Society may so require the solicitor to attend; provided that, where the solicitor is to be interviewed in relation to matters contained in a report or reports of an authorised person, the solicitor shall be furnished with a copy of such report or reports in advance of such attendance, and the solicitor may attend such interview accompanied by another solicitor, by counsel or by his or her reporting accountant (or two or more of them), as the solicitor may deem fit;

(c) that there has been a material breach of these Regulations by the solicitor concerned or that there has been other misconduct by the solicitor disclosed by his or her accounting records (or both), the Society may make application to the Disciplinary Tribunal for an inquiry into the conduct of the solicitor on the ground of alleged misconduct pursuant to section 7 (as substituted by section 17 of the Act of 1994) of the Act of 1960;

(whether or not the Society decide to make application to the Disciplinary Tribunal in the particular case) that there has been such a material breach of these Regulations by the solicitor concerned or such other misconduct by the solicitor as disclosed by his or her accounting records (or both), the Society may require the solicitor to pay to the Society an amount, which, in the opinion of the Society, represents the cost thereby incurred by the Society, taking into account the nature and extent of the investigation, the preparation of a report or reports thereon, the further enquiries arising therefrom and any interview or interviews conducted by the Society consequential thereon.

(7) The Society may at any time terminate the authority of an authorised person and appoint another authorised person to carry out or complete an investigation pursuant to this Regulation.

Requirement to furnish accounting statement or report

36. (1) Where so required by the Society by notice in writing, a solicitor or controlling trustee or non-controlling trustee or personal insolvency practitioner shall prepare, and shall furnish to the Society within such time (not being less than seven days) as the Society shall specify in such notice, a statement (in these Regulations referred to as an “accounting statement”) in respect of a period of time not exceeding six months expiring on the date of such notice, showing, in summary form:

(a) the up-to-date balances, together with appropriate reconciliations, of all clients' moneys, controlled trust moneys, non-controlled trust moneys and insolvency arrangement moneys received, held, controlled and due in respect of all clients and controlled trusts and non-controlled trusts and insolvency arrangements, or, where so specified by the Society in such notice, in respect of a specified client or clients or a specified controlled trust or controlled trusts or a specified non-controlled trust or non-controlled trusts or a specified insolvency arrangement or insolvency arrangements, and

(b) where and how at the date of such accounting statement the amounts of such balances are held.

(2) Where an amount is due by a client or controlled trust or non-controlled trust or insolvency arrangement to a solicitor or to a controlling trustee or a non-controlling trustee or a personal insolvency practitioner in respect of professional fees or outlays (or both) and where such amount has not been agreed or the subject of a final certificate of taxation, the figure to be included in an accounting statement shall be the gross amount claimed by the solicitor or by the controlling trustee or non-controlling trustee or personal insolvency practitioner as due by such client or controlled trust or non-controlled trust or insolvency arrangement; provided that where part of such amount so claimed is recoverable by the solicitor or controlling trustee or non-controlling trustee or personal insolvency practitioner on behalf of the client or controlled trust or non-controlled trust or insolvency arrangement from any other party or parties or any insurers of such other party or parties (whether such part of such gross amount has been paid or agreed to be paid or can only at the time be estimated by the solicitor or controlling trustee or non-controlling trustee or personal insolvency practitioner, whether or not subject to final ascertainment by means of taxation), the part of such gross amount as paid or as agreed to be paid by such party or parties or insurers or as estimated by the solicitor shall be shown in such accounting statement as a credit or an estimated credit against such gross amount.

(3) Where so required by the Society by notice in writing, a solicitor or controlling trustee or non-controlling trustee or personal insolvency practitioner shall furnish to the Society either in addition to or in lieu of an accounting statement, a report by the solicitor’s reporting accountant stating:

(a) whether the reporting accountant is satisfied that the accounting records of the solicitor or the controlling trustee or the non-controlling trustee or personal insolvency practitioner towards each insolvency arrangement have been properly maintained and kept in accordance with these Regulations and whether the accounting records duly record the true financial position of the solicitor towards each client concerned or the controlling trustee or the non-controlling trustee towards each controlled trust or non-controlled trust concerned or personal insolvency practitioner towards each insolvency arrangement concerned as the case may be, as at the date of such report; and
(b) (where the reporting accountant cannot certify his or her satisfaction as provided for in subclause (a) of this clause) the matters (if any) in respect of which the reporting accountant is not so satisfied.

(4) A report by a solicitor's reporting accountant to be furnished to the Society pursuant to clause (3) of this Regulation may, where the Society so direct, be limited only to one or more specified clients or controlled trusts or non-controlled trusts or insolvency arrangements.

PART VII

38. Any notice or other notification required to be given by the Society to a solicitor under these Regulations shall be given in writing under the hand of the Registrar or the Director General of the Society, or such other person as may be appointed by the Society for that purpose, and may, without prejudice to any other methods of service provided for by the Solicitors Acts, be delivered by hand or sent by prepaid registered post to the up-to-date address of the place of business, or (if more than one) the principal place of business of the solicitor, as noted in the records of the Society; and, when so sent by prepaid registered post, shall be deemed to have been received by the solicitor within three working days after the date of such posting.
